-----Are all things we feel and cannot see
The missing words from fleeting thoughts
The unexplained understanding of Universal concepts
The peripheral vision we almost see
How does another understand our body language along with the words we say
It's all the unspoken words
It's the space between us defined
It's the time between the before and the after
It's a new day of hope and promise
It's the dark thoughts during the night that stay for a lifetime
It's the form a relationship takes between two, three or more
It's a projection of one's self realized
It's.....unfinished
